A MESSAGE FROM THE ADMINISTRATIVE DIRECTOR

I am pleased to transmit the Fiscal Year 2007 Annual Report for the Alaska Court System.

Overall, looking across geographical and jurisdictional lines, growth in total aggregate case filings in FY 2007 was essentially flat. However, within the aggregate total, some types of cases and workload at some court locations experienced considerable growth.

Felony filings in the third judicial district amounted to a significant increase from FY 2006 to FY 2007 levels, and this increase is also reflected in a three year comparison. Anchorage felony filings rose 19% from FY 06 to FY 07, and the three year comparison (FY 05 to FY 07) reflects a 33% increase. The filing statistics we currently have available to date for FY 2008 indicate that this increase in felony filings in Anchorage continues. FY 2007 felony filings at other third judicial district courts also amounted to an increase in felony filings from the previous year: Dillingham (45%) and Kenai (19%). Courts are required by law to handle these criminal cases within specified time periods, and significant increases in felony filings disproportionately increase the court's workload, as compared with many other case types.

The court's new case management system (CourtView) was implemented in all second judicial district courts in FY 2007. To date, the courts of Palmer, Anchorage, Fairbanks, Nome, Kotzebue, Barrow and Unalakleet have been converted to this new system. With the addition of the second judicial district courts, approximately 68% of the court system's caseload statewide is managed through CourtView. In 2008, CourtView will be installed in the remaining fourth CourtView provides vastly improved management and research judicial district courts. capabilities, although it also absorbs more staff resources which are needed to provide the significantly increased data input requirements.

Eight new district and superior court judges were appointed in FY 2007. The court system continues to experience the significant judicial turnover which has been typical of the last several years.

The court system continues its outreach efforts, both to provide educational opportunities for the public to learn about our justice system, and to insure that the court understands and addresses the concerns of Alaska's residents. Judges from all levels of court and all judicial districts routinely participate in Law Day activities. The Fairness and Access Implementation Committee, chaired by Alaska Supreme Court Justice Robert Eastaugh, is conducting public hearings in a number of locations in Alaska. These hearings invite both the public and institutional representatives to comment on the court's interactions with ethnic and racial minorities. Alaska Supreme Court Chief Justice Dana Fabe has initiated a series of "Open Court" forums around the state, designed as community conversations about a variety of important justice issues.

The judges and employees of the Alaska Court System remain committed to the mission of the court: to provide an accessible and impartial forum for the just resolution of all cases that come before the court, and to decide such cases in accordance with the law, expeditiously and with integrity.

Sincerely,

Stephanie J. Cole

Profile of the Alaska Court System

PROFILE OF THE ALASKA COURT SYSTEM

INTRODUCTION

There are four levels of courts in the Alaska Court System, each with different powers, duties and responsibilities. Alaska has a unified, centrally administered, and totally statefunded judicial system. Municipal governments do not maintain separate court systems.

The four levels of courts in the Alaska Court System are the supreme court, the court of appeals, the superior court and the district court. The supreme court and court of appeals are appellate courts, while the superior and district courts are trial courts. Jurisdiction and responsibilities of each level of court are set out in Title 22 of the Alaska Statutes.

The supreme court and the superior court were established in the Alaska Constitution. In 1959, the legislature created a district court for each judicial district and granted power to the supreme court to increase or decrease the number of district court judges. In 1980, the legislature created a court of appeals.

The chief justice of the Alaska Supreme Court is the administrative head of the Alaska Court System. An administrative director is appointed by the chief justice with concurrence of the supreme court. The director supervises the administration of all courts in the state.

Rules governing the administration of all courts and the rules of practice and procedure for civil and criminal cases are promulgated by the supreme court.

ALASKA COURT SYSTEM ORGANIZATION

ALASKA SUPREME COURT

The supreme court is the appellate court of final authority in Alaska. It consists of a panel of five justices.

COURT OF APPEALS

The court of appeals hears appeals in criminal and quasi-criminal cases (such as juvenile delinquency cases). It consists of a panel of three judges.

SUPERIOR COURT

The superior court is the trial court of general jurisdiction. It has appellate jurisdiction over district court appeals and appeals from administrative agency decisions. There are 40 superior court judgeships.

DISTRICT COURT

The district court has limited civil and criminal jurisdiction. The district court consists of 21 district court judges, 53 authorized magistrate positions, and 8 committing magistrates (in Anchorage and Fairbanks).

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE

The supreme court is charged with the responsibility of administering the statewide system. The supreme court delegates most of the administrative matters to the administrative director and her staff.

THE ALASKA SUPREME COURT

The Alaska Supreme Court is the highest level of state court in Alaska. It hears appeals from lower state courts and also administers the state's judicial system.

The supreme court is comprised of the chief justice and four associate justices. The five justices, by majority vote, select one of their members to be the chief justice. The chief justice holds that office for three years and may not serve consecutive terms.

The supreme court hears cases on a monthly basis in Anchorage, approximately quarterly in Fairbanks and Juneau, and as needed in other Alaska communities. The court prefers to hear argument in the city where the case was heard in the trial court.

The court meets after oral argument and on a bi-weekly basis to confer on cases argued orally and on cases submitted on the briefs. The court decides the cases and announces its decisions in one of three ways:

- opinions for publication in the Pacific Reporter and in the Alaska Reporter;
- memorandum opinions and judgments (MO&J's); and
- orders summarily ruling on the merits of cases or dismissing them.

Though the MO&Js and most orders are not published, the MO&Js are available for public inspection at the Anchorage, Fairbanks, and Juneau offices of the clerk of the appellate courts, and the orders are filed in the clerk's Anchorage office. Current MO&Js are also available on the Alaska Court System web site at:

http://www.state.ak.us/courts

Under the Alaska Constitution, the supreme court establishes rules for the administration of all courts in the state and for practice and procedure in civil and criminal cases. The supreme court has further adopted rules for the practice of law in Alaska and procedural rules for children's matters, probate, and appeals. The Alaska Legislature may change the court's procedural rules by passing an act expressing its intent to do so by a two-thirds majority of both houses.

THE ALASKA SUPREME COURT

Chief Justice Dana Fabe began her second term as Chief Justice on July 1, 2006, having served her first term as Chief Justice from 2000-2003. She has served on the court since March 1996, and is the first woman to serve on the court. She was born in Cincinnati, Ohio. She holds a B.A. degree from Cornell University and a J.D. degree from Northeastern University School of Law. Chief Justice Fabe clerked for Justice Edmond W. Burke of the Alaska Supreme Court in 1976-77. She served as a staff attorney for the Alaska Public Defender Agency from 1977-81, and in 1981 she was appointed by the governor to be Chief Public Defender for Alaska. She was a member of the Board of Governors of the Alaska Bar Association in 1987-88. She was appointed to the superior court bench in Anchorage in 1988. She was deputy presiding judge of the third judicial district from 1992-

Chief Justice Dana Fabe

95, as well as a training judge for the third judicial district. She has co-chaired the Alaska Bar Association's Gender Equality Section, and currently chairs the Alaska Supreme Court's Commission on Judicial Outreach, the Law Day Steering Committee, and the Alaska Teaching Justice Network. She is a member of the American Judicature Society's National Advisory Council, a member of the American Judicature Society's Center for Judicial Ethics Advisory Committee, the Projects Committee Chair of the National Association of Women Judges, and an Executive Committee member of the National Association of Women Judges Board of Directors. She is married to Randall Simpson, and they have a daughter, Mia.

Justice Warren W. Matthews

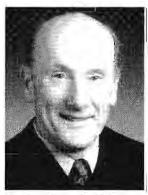

Justice Warren W. Matthews has served on the court since 1977. He was born in Santa Cruz, California. He holds a B.A. degree from Stanford University and a J.D. degree from Harvard University Law School. He was in the private practice of law in Anchorage from 1965-1977. Justice Matthews served as a member of the Board of Governors of the Alaska Bar Association, the Supreme Court Criminal Rules Revision Commission, the Alaska Sentencing Commission and as chairman of the Alaska Bar Ethics and Unauthorized Practices Commission. He served as Chief Justice 1987-1990 and 1997-2000. He has been a board member and vice president of the National Conference of Chief Justices. He is married to Donna Matthews and has two children.

Justice Robert L. Eastaugh was born in Seattle in 1943 and first traveled to Alaska in 1944. The family permanently returned to Alaska, where his parents had been born, in early 1946. Justice Eastaugh was raised in Juneau, where his father, F.O. Eastaugh, and grandfather, R.E. Robertson, both practiced law. Eastaugh graduated from Juneau-Douglas High School in 1961. He holds a B.A. in English Literature from Yale University and a J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School. He was admitted to practice law in Alaska in 1968. He was an Alaska Assistant Attorney General from 1968-1969 and an Assistant District Attorney from 1969-1972. He was in private practice at Delaney, Wiles, Hayes, Reitman & Brubaker, Inc. between 1972 and 1994. His professional emphasis was on appeals. Governor Walter J. Hickel appointed him to the supreme court. He took office on April 18, 1994. He has been co-chair of the Alaska Supreme Court's Fairness and Access Implementation Committee since 1998, has been a member of the Alaska Supreme Court's Appellate Rules Committee since 1985, chaired an Alaska Court System committee that revised personnel rules and procedures on discriminatory harassment, and was a Bar Examiner for the Alaska Bar Association in the early 1980's. He was a charter member of the Advisory Committee on Rules of Practice and Internal Operating Procedures for the Ninth Circuit, serving from 1983-1992. He is married to Suzanne Dvorak. He has two grown children.

Justice Robert L. Eastaugh

Justice Alexander O. Bryner

Justice Alexander O. Bryner has served on the court since February 1997. He was born in Tientsin, China. Justice Bryner moved to Alaska in 1969. He holds an A.B. degree in French Literature and a J.D. degree from Stanford University. He served as law clerk to Alaska Supreme Court Chief Justice George Boney from 1969 to 1971. He moved to San Francisco in 1971 and was a legal editor for Bancroft Whitney Company. After returning to Alaska in 1972, he worked for the Public Defender Agency in Anchorage. In 1974 he entered private practice as a partner in the firm of Bookman, Bryner and Shortell. He was appointed to the district court bench in Anchorage in 1975 and served until 1977. In 1977, he was appointed U.S. Attorney for Alaska and held that position until his appointment to the Court of Appeals in 1980. He served as Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals from 1980-1997.

Justice Bryner served as Chief Justice of the Alaska Supreme Court from July 1, 2003 through June 30, 2006. He is married to Anchorage artist. Carol Crump Bryner and has two children, Paul and Mara.

Justice Walter L. Carpeneti was appointed to the Alaska Supreme Court in 1998. Justice Carpeneti was born in San Francisco in 1945. He graduated with an A.B. degree (with distinction) in History from Stanford University in 1967, and received a J.D. degree from the University of California at Berkeley in 1970, where he was managing editor of the law review. He was a law clerk for Justice John H. Dimond of the Alaska Supreme Court in 1970-71. From 1972 to 1974 he was in private practice in San Francisco, first with Melvin Belli and then in an office with his father, retired San Francisco Superior Court Judge Walter I. Carpeneti, and his brother, Richard Carpeneti. He returned to Alaska in 1974 as the Public Defender in Juneau. He left that office in 1978 to go into private practice. He was appointed to the superior court by Governor Jay Hammond in 1981. He is married to Anne Dose Carpeneti, and they have four children: Christian, Marianna, Lia, and Bianca.

SUPREME COURT JURISDICTION

The term "jurisdiction" means a court's legal power and authority to hear particular types of cases.

The supreme court has final state appellate jurisdiction in civil and criminal matters:

- CIVIL APPEALS. The supreme court must accept appeals from final decisions by the superior court in civil cases (including cases which originated in administrative agencies).
- 2. The supreme court may exercise its discretion to accept:
 - a. CRIMINAL APPEALS, from decisions of the court of appeals or upon certification from the court of appeals that the case involves a significant question of constitutional law or an issue of substantial public interest; and
 - b. PETITIONS, from non-final decisions by the superior court in civil cases and from final decisions of the superior court on review of the district court's decisions in civil matters.
- ORIGINAL APPLICATIONS. The supreme court may also exercise its discretion to hear matters in which relief is not otherwise available, including bar admission and attorney discipline matters and questions of state law certified from the federal courts.

ADMINISTRATION

Chris Christensen
Deputy Administrative Director

Stephanie J. Cole
Administrative Director

Christine Johnson Deputy Administrative Director

As provided by Article IV, section 16 of the Constitution of Alaska, the Alaska Supreme Court appoints an administrative director to supervise the administrative operations of the judicial system. Stephanie Cole has been the administrative director since 1997.

Ms. Cole is assisted by two deputy directors, Christine Johnson and Chris Christensen, and 84 employees of the administrative office of the court.

The specific duties of the administrative director and the administrative office are outlined in Rule 1 of the Alaska Court System Rules of Administration.

Responsibilities of the administrative director include supervision of the administrative operations of the court and acting as legal advisor for the chief justice and the supreme court in all matters not adjudicatory in nature. Sections within the administrative office include Facilities, Fiscal Operations (including Accounting, Supply, Print Shop, Micrographics and Procurement), Legal and Legislative Liaison services, Mediation Projects Coordination, Judicial Education, Human Resources, Court Rules, Law Libraries and Information Systems (Technology).

THE COURT OF APPEALS

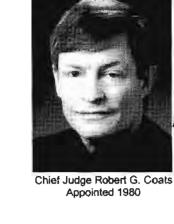

The court of appeals is a three-judge panel consisting of a chief judge and two associate judges. The court of appeals was created in 1980 by the Alaska Legislature.

The chief judge of the court of appeals is appointed by the chief justice to serve a two year term. Robert G. Coats was appointed chief judge for 2007 and 2008.

The court of appeals regularly meets in Anchorage, traveling to Fairbanks as caseload demands.

The court of appeals has the authority to hear appeals from judgments in criminal cases and certain other quasi-criminal cases in which a minor is accused of committing a crime (juvenile delinquency cases), cases in which prisoners are challenging the legality of their confinement (habeas corpus matters), and cases involving probation and parole decisions.

Criminal appeals from the district court can be taken to the superior court or to the court of appeals, at the option of the defendant. A defendant who appeals from district court to superior court can ask the court of appeals to review the resulting decision of the superior court, but the court of appeals may, in its discretion, refuse to hear the appeal.

Judge David Mannheimer Appointed 1990

Judge David Stewart Appointed 1997

COURT OF APPEALS JURISDICTION

The court of appeals has jurisdiction to hear appeals in cases involving criminal prosecutions, post-conviction relief, juvenile delinquency, extradition, habeas corpus, probation and parole, bail, and the excessiveness or leniency of a sentence:

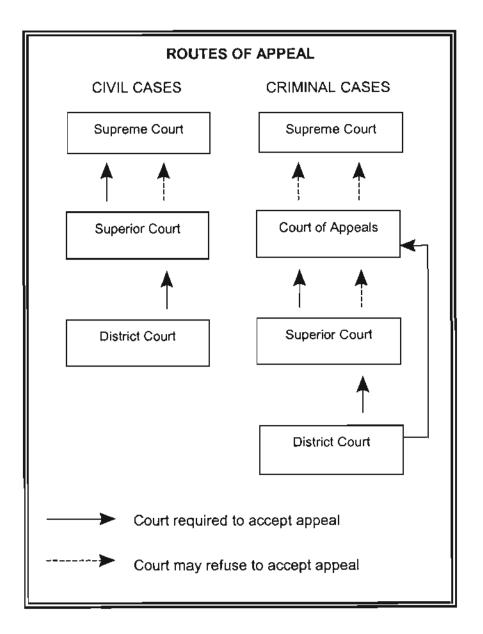

- MERIT APPEALS (issues concerning the merits of a conviction) or SENTENCE APPEALS (the excessiveness or leniency of a sentence) - The court of appeals must hear appeals from final decisions by the superior court or the district court.
- PETITIONS The court of appeals may exercise its discretion to hear appeals of non-final decisions from the superior court or the district court or from final decisions of the superior court on review of the district court's decisions.
- ORIGINAL APPLICATIONS The court of appeals may exercise its discretion to hear cases in which relief cannot be obtained from the court through one of the above types of appeals.

THE CLERK OF THE APPELLATE COURTS

The clerk's office of the appellate courts supports the work of the supreme court and the court of appeals. The clerk is required to be an attorney. The clerk's responsibilities include monitoring the caseflow through the supreme court and the court of appeals and making recommendations for improvements in appellate procedure. The clerk is also responsible for all case filing and calendaring, publishing opinions and related tasks. The clerk's office is located in Anchorage, and deputy clerks are located in Juneau, Anchorage and Fairbanks.

PRESIDING JUDGES AND AREA COURT ADMINISTRATORS

The State of Alaska is divided into four judicial districts.

FIRST JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Presiding Judge Larry Weeks Juneau Superior Court Appointed 1990 Retired June 2007

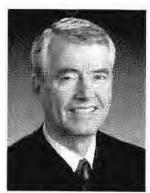

Neil Nesheim Area Court Administrator First Judicial District

The first judicial district stretches more than 500 miles along the Alaska Panhandle and is home to the largest forest in the United States - the Tongass National Forest. Containing nearly 11,000 miles of shoreline, the first district has 12 courts located between Craig and Yakutat. The five combined superior and district court locations are Ketchikan, Juneau, Sitka, Wrangell and Petersburg. District courts are located in Angoon, Craig, Haines, Hoonah, Kake, Skagway and Yakutat. Magistrates are the judicial officers in these district court locations.

Second Judicial District

The second judicial district begins in the northern portion of the Yukon-Kuskokwim Delta, and runs north along the coast through the district's three largest communities. Nome, created by the Gold Rush of 1889 that began in Anvil Creek, is home for the second district's only superior court located south of the Arctic Circle. The two other superior court locations are Kotzebue (29 miles above the Arctic Circle) and Barrow (the most northern community in North America).

THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Presiding Judge Morgan Christen Anchorage Superior Court Appointed 2002

Area Court Administrator
Third Judicial District

The third judicial district covers south-central Alaska, extending from the Canadian border to the end of the Aleutian Island chain. The district includes 15 court sites, ranging in size from single magistrate locations to the Anchorage trial court, which alone handles almost half the workload of the court system statewide. Third district staffing includes 20 superior court judges, 14 district court judges, eight magistrates, five committing magistrates and seven standing masters.

FOURTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Presiding Judge Mark I. Wood Fairbanks Superior Court Appointed 2002

Ronald J. Woods

Area Court Administrator
Fourth Judicial District

The fourth judicial district extends from the Canadian border on the east of the state to the Bering Sea on the west. The vast size of the district makes it the largest state trial court judicial district in the United States. There are seven superior court judges, three district court judges, thirteen magistrates, and two standing masters in the district. There are fourteen court sites.

SUPERIOR COURT JURISDICTION

The superior court has the authority to hear all cases, both civil and criminal, properly brought before the state courts (with the very limited exception of matters taken directly to the supreme court). However, the superior court does not routinely hear cases which may be brought in the district court (a court of limited jurisdiction).

The superior court:

- is a trial court for both criminal and civil cases
- serves as an APPELLATE COURT for appeals from civil and criminal cases which have been tried in the district court
- hears cases involving CHILDREN who have committed crimes or who are abused or neglected
- hears cases involving the PROPERTY OF DECEASED OR INCOMPETENT PERSONS
- hears cases involving INVOLUNTARY COMMITMENT of persons to institutions for the mentally ill
- handles DOMESTIC RELATIONS matters
- handles GUARDIANSHIPS AND CONSERVATORSHIPS

The superior court is the trial court of general jurisdiction. There are 40 superior court judgeships located throughout the state. Each superior court seat is located in one of Alaska's four judicial districts. The boundaries of the four districts are defined by state statute. The judicial districts define the boundaries for judicial retention elections at which voters indicate their approval or rejection of judges and justices.

In January of each year, the chief justice of the supreme court designates a superior court judge from each of Alaska's four judicial districts to serve as presiding judge for a term of one calendar year. The presiding judge, in addition to regular judicial duties, is responsible for the administration of the trial courts within the district, including assignment of cases, supervision of court personnel, efficient handling of court business and appointment of magistrates.

Appointments: Governor Murkowski appointed Anchorage District Court Judge Jack W. Smith and Michael Spaan to the Anchorage Superior Court in December of 2006; Governor Murkowski also appointed Vanessa White and Kari Kristiansen to the Palmer Superior Court in December 2006. Governor Sarah Palin appointed Marvin C. Hamilton III to the Bethel Superior Court and Magistrate Anna Moran to the Kenai Superior Court in February 2007. Governor Palin also appointed Michael MacDonald to the Fairbanks Superior Court in June of 2007.

THE DISTRICT COURT

The Alaska Constitution provides that the legislature shall establish such lower courts as may be necessary. In 1959, the legislature created a district court for each judicial district and granted to the supreme court the power to increase or decrease the number of district court judges within each judicial district. The district court currently has twenty-one judges.

DISTRICT COURT JURISDICTION

The district court is a trial court of limited jurisdiction. A district court judge may:

- hear STATE MISDEMEANORS and MINOR OFFENSES and violations of CITY AND BOROUGH ORDINANCES
- issue SUMMONSES, ARREST WARRANTS and SEARCH WARRANTS
- hear first appearances and PRELIMINARY HEARINGS in felony cases
- hear CIVIL CASES not to exceed a value of $100,000 per defendant
- hear SMALL CLAIMS cases ($10,000 maximum for most cases; $20,000 for wage claims brought by the Department of Labor)
- handle cases involving CHILDREN on an emergency basis
- hear DOMESTIC VIOLENCE cases
- hear INQUESTS and PRESUMPTIVE DEATH hearings

Appointments: Governor Palin appointed Richard W. Postma, Jr. to the Anchorage District Court and Sharon Illsley to the Kenai District Court in June 2007.

Magistrates preside over certain district court matters in areas of the state where services of a full-time district court judge are not required. Some magistrates serve more than one court location. Magistrates also serve in metropolitan areas to handle routine matters and to ease the workload of the district court.

A magistrate is not required to be a lawyer. The magistrate is a judicial officer of the district court whose authority is more limited than the authority of a district court judge.

MAGISTRATE JURISDICTION

A magistrate may:

- hear SMALL CLAIMS cases ($10,000 maximum for most cases; $20,000 for wage claims brought by the Department of Labor)
- hear FORMAL CIVIL cases ($10,000 maximum)
- issue writs of HABEAS CORPUS (challenges to the legality of a person's confinement)
- solemnize MARRIAGES and perform NOTARY PUBLIC duties
- handle cases involving CHILDREN on an emergency basis
- hear DOMESTIC VIOLENCE CASES
- act as a hearing officer to review an ADMINISTRATIVE REVOCATION of a driver's license
- enter a judgment of conviction if a defendant pleads guilty or no contest to any STATE MISDEMEANOR
- hold TRIALS and enter judgments in STATE MISDEMEANORS if a defendant agrees in writing to be tried by a magistrate
- hear trials of MUNICIPAL ORDINANCE violations, STATE TRAFFIC INFRACTIONS and other minor offenses
- preside over PRELIMINARY HEARINGS in felony cases
- issue SEARCH AND ARREST WARRANTS, and SUMMONSES
- conduct EXTRADITION (fugitive from justice) proceedings
- hear INQUEST and PRESUMPTIVE DEATH hearings

Judge Jane Kauvar Fairbanks District Court Appointed 1981

STATEWIDE COURT ADMINISTRATION

The chief justice of the supreme court is responsible for statewide court administration. By court rule, this responsibility is delegated to the administrative director of the courts subject to general guidelines set forth by the supreme court.

JUDICIAL EDUCATION

Judicial education and training takes several different forms. There is a statewide conference each year for judges which includes training in specific areas of court procedures or operations. Judges are eligible on a rotating basis for training at the National Judicial College in Reno, Nevada, All magistrates attend at least one magistrate conference during a During odd-numbered calendar year. years, regional magistrate conferences are held in the four judicial districts. A statewide magistrate conference is held in Anchorage during even-numbered years. Training judges, deputy training judges and staff of the administrative office regularly visit with magistrates for on-site The administrative office training. prepares written educational materials that are distributed to magistrates. Finally the judicial education coordinator secures grants from the federal government and other entities to make available special training for judges and magistrates throughout the year.

THE JUDICIAL APPOINTMENT PROCESS

Alaska has a merit selection system for judges and justices. The governor appoints a supreme court justice or a judge of the court of appeals, superior court, or district court from a list of qualified candidates submitted by the Alaska Judicial Council. The governor has 45 days from receipt of the list to make the appointment.

In order to be eligible for appointment to the supreme court, a person must be a citizen of the United States and a resident of Alaska for five years immediately prior to appointment. A justice must be licensed to practice law in Alaska at the time of appointment and must have engaged in the active practice of law for eight years.

A court of appeals judge must be a citizen of the United States; a resident of Alaska for five years immediately preceding appointment; have been engaged for not less than eight years immediately preceding appointment in the active practice of law; and at the time of appointment be licensed to practice law in Alaska.

The qualifications of a judge of the superior court are the same as for a supreme court justice, except only five years of active practice are necessary.

A district court judge must be 21 years of age; a citizen of the United States; a resident of the state for at least five years; and (1) be licensed to practice law in Alaska and have engaged in active practice of law for not less than three years immediately preceding appointment, or (2) have served for at least seven years as a magistrate in the state and have graduated from an accredited law school.

Magistrates are not appointed by the governor nor are their qualifications reviewed by the Alaska Judicial Council prior to their appointments. Their appointments are made for an indefinite period by the presiding judge of the judicial district in which they will serve. Each magistrate serves at the pleasure of the presiding judge. A magistrate does not have to be a lawyer. A magistrate must be 21 years of age, a United States citizen, and a citizen of Alaska for six months prior to appointment.

JUDICIAL RETENTION

All judges and justices in Alaska periodically must stand for retention (approval by the voters).

Each supreme court justice and each court of appeals judge is subject to approval or rejection by a majority of voters statewide on a nonpartisan ballot at the first general election held more than three years after appointment. Thereafter, each justice must participate in a retention election every ten years; each court of appeals judge must participate every eight years.

Each superior court judge is subject to approval or rejection by the voters in the judge's judicial district at the first general election held more than three years after appointment. Thereafter, the judge is subject to approval or rejection every sixth year. Each district court judge must also run in a retention election in his or her district at the first general election held more than two years after appointment, and then every fourth year thereafter. State laws that require judges to participate in retention elections do not apply to magistrates.

THE COMMISSION ON JUDICIAL CONDUCT

The Commission on Judicial Conduct is a constitutionally created state agency in the judicial branch but separate from the court system. The commission consists of nine members: three state court judges or justices, three lawyers with at least ten years legal practice in Alaska, and three persons who are not lawyers or judges. The chief function of the commission is to investigate complaints of ethical misconduct against state judges and justices. The commission has the power to recommend that the supreme court sanction a justice or judge. Possible sanction recommendations include suspension, removal, retirement from office, or public or private censure. Since 1990, all formal hearings before the Commission on Judicial Conduct are public. In October 1997, the Commission held the first public hearing under the 1990 statute.

Staff continue to make a concerted effort to screen many complaints before they actually were filed with the Commission. Seven new jurisdictional complaints were filed in 2007. A total of eleven jurisdictional complaints were acted on in 2007. Of those eleven complaints, five had been filed in previous years. There was one formal proceeding in 2007 that was resolved by stipulation and approval by the Alaska Supreme Court. No formal charges were filed by the Commission in 2007.

Special committees of the Commission draft advisory opinions in response to written requests. In 2007, the Commission adopted one formal advisory opinion.

mission on Judicial Conduct, call (907) 272-1033 or toll-free 800-478-1033.

THE ALASKA JUDICIAL COUNCIL

The Alaska Judicial Council is an independent judicial branch agency created by the Alaska Constitution. It has three main areas of responsibility. First, the council solicits. screens nominates applicants for gubernatorial appointments for judicial vacancies and the Alaska Public Defender. The council nominates the most qualified applicants to the governor for appointment. Second, the council evaluates judges who appear on the ballot in retention elections. The council recommends whether the public should retain judges in office and publicizes the performance evaluation about judges. The council also evaluates retired judges who serve pro tem. Third, the constitution requires the council to studies conduct and make recommendations to improve the administration of justice in Alaska.

The Alaska Judicial Council is comprised of three non-attorney members appointed by the governor and subject to confirmation by a majority of the members of the state legislature, three attorney members appointed by the board of governors of the Alaska Bar Association who consider an advisory poll of Alaskan attorneys, and the chief justice (who serves as chairperson and ex officio member who votes only when his or her vote could affect the result). Council members serve staggered six year terms and are appointed with due consideration of geographical location and without regard to political consideration.

The Alaska Judicial Council must report to the Alaska State Legislature and the Alaska Supreme Court at least once every two years. The council is assisted by an executive director and support staff.

For more information on the Alaska Judicial Council, call (907) 279-2526 or visit the Council's Internet site at www.ajc.state.ak.us.

BUDGET AND FISCAL AFFAIRS

The Alaska Legislature annually appropriates monies for the operation of the Alaska Court System. A statewide budget for all trial courts, the appellate courts and court administration is prepared centrally by the administrative office.

The budget process for the court system begins with the submission of budget requests by the trial and appellate courts to the administrative director. requests are reviewed with each judicial district's area court administrator and the clerk of the appellate courts. Then, these requests are modified to conform to the overall court budget plan. The court's budget request is reviewed and approved by the supreme court. Following legislative review and appropriation, funds are then allocated to the judicial districts, appellate courts and the the administrative offices.

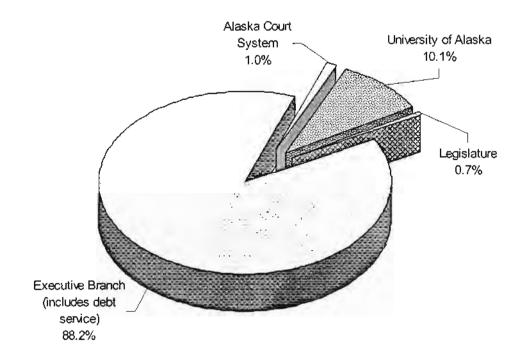

Since fiscal year 1997, the court has experienced an average annual growth rate of approximately 6% in its funding base. The court's FY 07 final authorized operating budget increased by $10,150,000 from the FY 06 final authorized level. The additional funding was needed for increased salary and benefits costs, new judicial officers and related staff, lease expenses, and increased utilities. The court system's budget represents approximately 1.0% of the State's operating budget.

The actual expenditures incurred by the court system during fiscal year 2007 were $74,861,600. These expenditures were incurred as follows: Administration. $8,073,100; Appellate Courts, $5,522,000; and Trial Courts. $61,266,500. The Trial Courts total includes expenses of $508,700 funded through federal and other granting agencies and $922,200 funded through interagency receipts.

Personnel costs of $57,558,300 represent approximately 77% of the total operating costs. Expenses for rent, maintenance, utilities, lanitorial services and insurance on court facilities in fifty-seven locations across the state amounted to $5,051,500. Jury fees totaled $882,900. Approximately $1,391,000 was spent for system travel court and juror transportation and living expenses. Other operating expenses of the court (including supplies, phones, postage, equipment rental, leasehold improvements and new equipment) make up approximately $9,977,900 of the annual expenditures.

Revenues generated by the courts are deposited in the state general fund. except those originating from municipal ordinance violations, which are disbursed to the respective municipalities. During fiscal year 2007, the court system collected $8,967,600 in revenues. Revenues from fines and forfeitures totaled $5,451,000. Civil case filing fees ($150 superior court, $90 district court, $40 small claims) totaled $2,402,700. Clerical fees (notary, transcript, copies) other miscellaneous receipts amounted to $319,200. Cost recoveries totaled $175.600 and interest on investments totaled $619,100.

Year in Review

2007 HIGHLIGHTS

- Six new superior court judgeships created by the 2006 legislature (two in Anchorage, two in Palmer, and one each in Kenai and Fairbanks) were filled in FY07, giving the courts much-needed resources to address the increased workload from rising caseloads.
- In the second judicial district, all courts migrated to the court system's new case management system, CourtView. The courts in Palmer, Anchorage, Fairbanks, Nome, Kotzebue, Barrow and Unalakleet are now using the CourtView system. These courts handle approximately 68% of the court's caseload statewide. The new CourtView system provides greatly improved case management and research capabilities.
- The trial courts continue to experience a high level of judicial turnover. During FY 2007, eight new superior and district court judges were appointed.
- The court's Fairness and Access Implementation Committee, chaired by Justice Robert Eastaugh, began a series of community conversations, as a part of the Supreme Court's ten year follow-up to the original report developed by the court's Fairness and Access Committee: "Fairness and Access in Alaska's Courts: Ensuring Equal Treatment for People of All Races and Ethnicities." During FY 2007, this program was held in Bethel.
- Chief Justice Fabe began a series of "Open Court" programs throughout Alaska. These programs focus on topics of importance to local courts and communities, with an intention of involving local justice practitioners and the public to improve the operations of the justice system. In FY 2007, Open Court programs were held in Juneau (focusing on "closing the revolving door" of the criminal justice system, through therapeutic courts and community corrections), Ketchikan (focusing on therapeutic courts and responses to juvenile substance abuse) and Sitka (focusing on the rise of self-representation in courts).
- Judges throughout the state continue to work with schools and community groups to promote civic education and to encourage better public understanding of the justice system. Judges from all districts participate in Law Day programs. Law Day activities often involve mock trials, school tours of courthouses, public forums, and student contests.
- A major facility expansion was accomplished at the Bethel court, which added two courtrooms to accommodate new judicial officers. Also at the Bethel courthouse, plans were being finalized for a new security screening system (to be operational early in FY 2008) as part of the supreme court's commitment to upgrade security for jurors, litigants, court employees and the public at courthouses statewide.

FACILITIES

The Facilities department maintains court facilities in 47 communities throughout the state. These range from large multicourtroom courthouses to one-room magistrate offices-from the 353,000 square feet of the Anchorage trial and appellate court facilities to the 160 square feet of the Unalakleet magistrate's office. Thirteen of these court locations are housed in buildings owned by the state. The remaining locations are housed in spaces leased from the private sector or from government. The court system occupies approximately 750,000 square feet of space statewide. Approximately 65 percent of the statewide court system space is located in Anchorage, Juneau, and Fairbanks.

During FY07 the court system has continued to balance competing needs: controlling cost, providing acceptable service levels in local communities, and ensuring the useful life of court facilities.

Building Upgrades and Expansion

Anchorage.

The Boney Courthouse continues to be renovated: projects include remodel of courtrooms and chambers to accommodate new judges and trial court proceedings upgrades to bring building systems and materials into compliance with current codes, and to correct deferred maintenance conditions.

Bethel.

A project to expand the courthouse to add two courtrooms, and related jury rooms and chambers to accommodate new judicial officers was completed and the space was occupied in January 2007.

Palmer.

Plans were developed to expand the courthouse to add three courtrooms and related jury rooms and chambers to accommodate new judicial officers. The construction began in May 2007, with full occupancy expected by May 2008.

Kenai.

Plans were developed and a construction project awarded to add three courtrooms and associated spaces to accommodate new judges and future expansion for this location. Occupancy is expected by September 2008.

Sitka.

A remodel project to upgrade finishes and expand the jury seating area of the superior courtroom was completed.

Seward.

A remodel project to expand the courtroom and jury room to accommodate superior court proceedings was awarded and is in progress.

Fairbanks.

A new chambers was completed for the new judicial position funded in FY07 and a courtroom is in progress. This remodel will be completed in FY08.

Building System Replacements

Eight of the court system's thirteen buildings are over 30 years old. Many components, such as boilers, ventilation fans, cooling coils and floor finishes must be replaced as they wear out. As building inventory grows old, the cost of making these replacements exceeds the funding appropriated in the operating budget for routine annual maintenance. Accordingly, the need for capital funds to ensure the extended life of court buildings becomes significant. The court system has been fortunate to have replaced the oldest buildings (constructed in 1952 and 1962) with new structures, but court buildings in Juneau, Ketchikan, Sitka, Kodiak, Valdez, Ft. Yukon, Delta Junction, and two in Anchorage currently need building system replacement work. With an appropriation received in FY07 some of this work is now scheduled for completion during FY08 for Palmer, Kenai and Anchorage.

Deferred Maintenance

Deferred maintenance needs at many court facilities are continuing concerns. In five of the last eight years (FY00, FY01, FY03, FY04, and FY06) the court system received appropriations for deferred maintenance projects. These funds were used for the highest priority projects, such as roof replacements, to ensure that buildings did not fail. But a backlog of $3.3 million still remains of the $14 million in deferred maintenance projects originally identified in 1993. The value of adequate routine and preventive maintenance is well documented. Without adequate maintenance, buildings will deteriorate at an accelerated rate. reducing the useful life of the facility. An example is the nine-story Juneau Dimond court and office building which continues to leak water at an ever-increasing rate as patch and repair efforts fail to provide a waterproof exterior wall system.

Juneau.

The structural plaza was re-surfaced, and various water-protection materials replaced in an effort to reduce leakage to the ground floor areas. This remedy was effective for the areas directly below the work. Additionally deteriorated wall and floor finishes were replaced in all courtrooms, and rusted railings were refinished.

Ft. Yukon.

Replacement of deteriorated flooring, piping, and fixtures, and asbestos abatement were completed.

Service and Maintenance Contracts.

During the last three years, many of the janitorial, snow removal, and landscape maintenance service contracts have been rebid as they expired, resulting in increased costs for these contracts. Building maintenance tasks, particularly preventive maintenance, have not been reduced. Continuing such maintenance avoids adding to the backlog of deferred maintenance projects.

Leases.

Several facility leases expired or came up for renewal in FY07. Despite efforts to contain or reduce costs, most of the lease actions resulted in increased costs to the operating budget, in large part due to significant utility cost increases.

Energy Efficiency.

The court system has always focused on ensuring energy efficiency, but as energy rates rapidly escalate, this effort has become a greater priority. Energy efficiency has been maximized in the new Anchorage and Fairbanks courthouses, but several of the larger state-owned court and office buildings need improvements to make them more energy efficient, thus containing operating costs. Simple but effective improvements include the installation of motion and light level sensors as well as low watt, long-life fixtures designed to lower electricity consumption. Where this work has been performed, energy consumption has decreased significantly. In these types of projects, costs of installation are usually recouped during the first year of operation. Based on recommendations of energy evaluations (which have occurred at all but a few court facilities) installation of appropriate devices and fixtures should take place. Energy consumption is audited yearly at court-owned facilities and adjustments are made as appropriate to reduce consumption.

EMERGENCY RESPONSE

During FY07 the court system updated policies and procedures for emergency response and continuity of operations planning. Staff continued working with the executive branch to ensure that appropriate communication and cooperation occurs between the branches of government in circumstances requiring implementation of emergency-response plans. We are now working on specific response details for such emergencies as pandemic events.

SECURITY

The court system continues to plan for providing increased security at court buildings around the state. In the FY07 budget, the legislature appropriated funds for the third phase of a multi-year request for security projects. The court system began implementation of these projects in 2003. A major project to replace failing systems in Anchorage was completed in October 2007. Security upgrades were completed in Fairbanks and for the Anchorage parking garage, which received new lighting, painting and emergency pull stations to improve safety for employees and the public.

FISCAL OPERATIONS

Fiscal Operations is responsible for the financial affairs of the court system and the following centralized service divisions:

- General Accounting pays all court bills, collects and accounts for revenues, processes travel claims, and maintains court trust fund records.
- Purchasing procures supplies, equipment and contractual services and maintains supply and property inventories.
- Finance prepares and administers the operating and capital budgets, prepares legislative financial analyses, conducts internal audits, manages grant finances, establishes and monitors banking contracts, and develops and administers fiscal policy for the trial and appellate courts.
- Jury Management maintains the master list of jurors, coordinates the preparation and distribution of juror qualification questionnaires, and assists the courts in selecting jury panels, analyzing juror usage and paying jurors. This section also enters traffic dispositions into ASPIN and conducts criminal records checks.
- Records Management Services is the central collection point for all case files that need to be microfilmed and for long-term storage of audio tapes and digital recordings of court proceedings. Annually, Record Management Services converts an average of 3,000,000 documents from paper to microfilm and indexes and - stores the court's audio tapes and digital recordings statewide.

- Supply receives, stores, and issues supplies and forms to courts statewide.
- Mailroom handles mail services for the administrative offices and the Anchorage trial courts.
- Print Shop provides centralized offset printing and duplication services for the court system and other judicial agencies, producing over 10 million documents each year.

During FY07, Fiscal Operations participated in the following projects and activities:

Case Management Project.

CourtView, the court's automated case management system, continued to impact Fiscal Operations in FY07. Courts throughout the state manage separate trust accounts. In FY07, the courts of Barrow, Nome, Kotzebue and Unalakleet were converted to the new case management system (joining Anchorage, Fairbanks and Palmer courts. which have been using CourtView) and became part of the centralized accounting effort. The transition to centralized accounting has resulted in a significant savings of trial court staff time now that the printing, signing and mailing of checks are completed by the Revenue and Trust Additionally, as funds are aggregated into a single account versus separately, the court system is able to achieve higher rates of interest from the financial institution which manages the court system's Trust accounts. Late last fiscal year, the court system implemented E-pay, which enables customers to pay fines and other court costs online through the internet. This payment option continues to grow in popularity.

The Revenue and Trust Division continued to monitor financial activities at each court location through a review of reports submitted by the courts, independent confirmations of bank account balances, and examinations of financial transaction documents prepared by court staff. Audits and onsite assistance were rendered to the Barrow, Nome, Kotzebue, Unalakleet, and Bethel courts. Training for managing court finances is conducted telephonically on a regular basis for clerks of courts and bookkeepers.

Records Management Division.

During fiscal year 2007, the Records Management Services (RMS) Division implemented substantial changes in its records management processes. With capital funding appropriated to the court to improve public access to its case records, RMS purchased the necessary equipment and software to begin scanning case files and making them available to court employees and to the general public statewide. records are converted from paper to electronic images, case file records can be accessed through the court system's intranet. The first records were imaged in November, 2006. By the end of FY07 over 1,336,000 images (pages) consisting of over 36,900 case files were imaged and made available electronically. Imaged records are much easier to access than records formerly archived only on microfilm. The court system will continue to microfilm its case records through a process that efficiently records the imaged record to film. The microfilm will be retained and stored offsite, but is unlikely to be accessed with any frequency as the imaged records are much more accessible and user-friendly.

Data Warehouse Project.

The court system is participating in the executive branch's effort to replace current financial, payroll and human resources' reporting tools, which are inflexible and difficult to manage. The Data Enterprise Reporting (ALDER) project will integrate data from multiple systems into a unified environment for simpler and more effective user reporting. The court system has ongoing representation on the committee that is directing and testing this project which is expected to be completed in FY08.

Increased Number of Judges and Judicial Salary Increase

Through SB 237 chartered in FY06, the court system received six new superior court judges – two in Anchorage, two in Palmer, one in Fairbanks and one in Kenai. The additional judicial resource was approved to assist the justice system with its backlog of cases. This legislation also resulted in other justice agencies receiving additional resources to support the statewide effort to address backlogged and increasingly complex case loads.

SB 237 also approved an approximately 30% salary increase for the Alaska Court System's judges. As adjusted for geographical cost differences, judges working in Alaska ranked near the bottom of the pay scale when comparing their salaries against those of judges in the 49 states that reported this information to the National Center for State Courts.

Procurement of Network Services.

The Purchasing Division entered into multiple formal procurement contracts during FY07. As a result of one of these competitive bidding processes, the court system entered into a contract with General Communications Incorporated for the provision of wide area network services. These services were previously procured through an interagency agreement with the state, but the implementation of the court system's case management system required the pursuit of services specifically designed for the court system and its network infrastructure.

Employee Achievement Awards.

During FY07 two divisions within Fiscal Operations received Employee Achievement Awards. The Employee Achievement Award recognizes employees who have initiated innovative improvements, timesaving techniques, and/or procedural changes that increase efficiency. The Records Management Division received the award for implementing and embracing the many changes involved with the transition from microfilmed records to scanning and production of electronic records. following staff receiving this award: Sylvester Perry, who served as the acting supervisor of this division for over a year. Piang T. Daigger, John DeClue, Linda Bright, Darlene Melickian, Miriam Tisdel, Inna Boiko, and Elaine White.

The Revenue and Trust Division, which is staffed by Renie Ludwig, Judy Nettle and Birdie Jones, received the 4th quarter's award for their successful implementation of centralized accounting services, which has resulted in significant time and cost savings for the trial courts.

HUMAN RESOURCES

The Human Resources (HR) Department provides services to court system employees and members of the public throughout Alaska. The department is responsible for payroll, recruitment, position classification, compensation, employee relations, personnel records, and information related to the retirement and benefits system.

Payroll

Time and attendance information, leave cash-ins, and leave donations are calculated and entered into the state payroll system semi-monthly. payroll transactions include processing employee appointments, separations, transfers, promotions, merit and longevity increases, reclassifications, and general Payroll reports are pay increases. verified and compensation is issued through electronic deposits or on-line warrants. Payroll staff conducts pay and leave audits, responds to pay and benefit inquiries from court system employees supervisors, and provides employment verification to lenders and other agencies. The HR Department provides a weekly orientation session for new employees to advise them of court rules and policies, to review payroll and benefit information, and to assist with completion of initial hire paperwork.

Recruitment

The recruitment function includes the advertisement of positions and the collection and screening of applicants. The court system uses Workplace Alaska, the on-line recruitment system used by the executive branch, to fill most court vacancies. Special recruitment efforts may be used for magistrates, standing masters, and other specialized positions in the exempt or partially exempt service. The court system regularly recruits throughout Alaska, and occasionally throughout the United States. In an effort to reach the largest possible pool of qualified applicants, and to attract applicants from diverse ethnic and cultural backgrounds, recruitment bulletins are distributed to a wide variety of organizations.

Classification

In accord with statutes and court rules. the HR Department maintains the court's classification and pay plan. This involves the development and revision of class specifications for the classified and partially exempt services, creation and classification of permanent and temporary positions, and the periodic review of individual positions to ensure allocation to appropriate job class. descriptions, interviews with employees and supervisors, and other information are used to determine the proper classification of each position. In FY07, the HR Department completed a major classification study of the work performed by in-court clerks and began a classification study of the work performed by magistrates, standing masters, and committing magistrates.

Employment Law Administration

The HR staff administers state and federal employment laws for the court system. These include the Family Medical Leave Act and the Alaska Family Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Workers Compensation, and laws relating to discrimination and harassment.

Personnel Rules

The Human Resources Department is responsible for the review of the court's personnel rules. HR staff provides information and assistance to managers and employees regarding the application and interpretation of the rules.

Employee Relations

The Human Resources staff provides assistance to supervisors and employees to resolve employment conflicts and investigate allegations of misconduct. HR notifies supervisors when performance evaluations are due, assists them in the preparation and review of performance evaluations, investigates evaluation disputes, and helps in the development of performance improvement plans.

Professional Development

The Human Resources Department works in conjunction with the Resource Development Officer and the Area Court Administrators to provide a variety of training and development opportunities to court employees. HR assists in development of training to enhance the professional development of employees at all levels of the classified and partially-exempt services.

INFORMATION SERVICES: COURT TECHNOLOGY

The Information Services Department ("IS") is responsible for information technologies in the trial courts, the appellate courts, and the court system's administrative offices. This includes procurement, development, installation and maintenance of various technologies statewide. The department is organized into the following teams:

Network Services Team.

Network Services The Team is responsible for the management of networks and servers for all court locations. Services provided include email, web services, the Court's dedicated WAN (Wide Area Network) services and all connectivity technologies for court staff as well as government entities outside the courts and the public. The Network Services Team is responsible for the security of the various systems, the integrity of the databases, and business continuity.

Technical Services Team.

Technical Services Team is responsible for the installation and maintenance of over 1300 computers and 500 printers for over 800 users in the courts. This team ensures the daily of computers, operation printers. applications, telephones, audio recording, video, imaging (scanning), and security (alarms). and related cabling infrastructure. Technical Services receives and evaluates new technology. preparing it for use with current systems and applications, and provides, maintains, and demonstrates technology for various events and training forums.

HelpDesk Services.

As the court adopts new technologies, all users, internal or external, need a quality HelpDesk service. Because most of the questions coming to the HelpDesk revolve around court applications, technical equipment and networking, the IS HelpDesk is staffed by both trainers and technicians. The staff's primary responsibilities are to monitor each issue, to help ensure a timely resolution to all requests and to focus on the continuous improvement of customer service.

Applications Development.

The Applications Development Team is responsible for the development. procurement, maintenance and management of application software. Areas of responsibility include desktop applications (such as Microsoft Office products), web applications, provision of court case information, electronic data exchanges, and the management of court's information data warehouse. In addition, the team provides application integration and report development services for all technology development projects.

Case Management System Team.

The primary objective of the Case Management System (CMS) Team is to implement the new CourtView case management system in the courts. At the time of implementing CourtView, the CMS Team also implements a file management system called TrakMan. The team installs the new systems at courts, maintains the tables required by the system, develops modifications of the system, tests new applications, works with court staff to standardize procedures, develops training materials, and provides staff for the IS Help Desk. In FY07, the CMS team successfully implemented CourtView and TrakMan in Barrow. Kotzebue, Nome and Unalakleet. Other important projects implemented and completed by the CMS include: development of the electronic ticket interface with the Anchorage Police Department: implementation of e-pay of fines and surcharges for minor offense citations through the court's website; development of an electronic report of dismissed charges to the Department of Public Safety; implementation improved CourtView forms making it easier for staff to create documents; and the development and deployment of numerous Alaska modifications CourtView.

Integrated Justice Services.

The Integrated Justice Services group chairs weekly meetings of the Multi-Agency Justice Integration Consortium (MAJIC), a team of state and local agencies formed in 2002 to improve electronic data sharing. The group is responsible for documenting data flow of information throughout the criminal justice system, ensuring that data exchange projects conform to state and national data standards, and educating agencies about data exchange standards, tools and best practices. The Integrated Justice group also represents the court on the state's Traffic Records Coordinating Committee, another interagency group dedicated to improving the flow and quality of electronic data. This coordination guarantees that the court's best interests are met in designing and implementing statewide integrated justice systems and information sharing projects. It minimizes redundant data collection and helps make critical information available to authorized users to enhance the quality of decision-making and improve public safety. Establishment of interagency governance structures and adherence to national data exchange standards enables the court to obtain federal funding for automated data exchange projects. In FY 2007 the court worked with the Department of Transportation and local law enforcement agencies to implement a statewide uniform citation form that can be filed electronically. The integrated justice group obtained federal grant funding for four positions to help improve automation of citation processing. The court also published specifications for automated reporting of court dispositions to the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Priorities.

CourtView, the new automated trial court case management system, is the IS Department's highest priority. Installation began as a pilot in August 2002 at the Palmer courthouse, followed by installation at Anchorage, the state's largest court, in October 2003.

Installation in Fairbanks, the state's second largest court, was completed in October 2004. Barrow, Kotzebue, Nome and Unalakleet had their installation completed in March 2007. Approximately 68% of court case information in Alaska is available in the CourtView system. CourtView will be installed in all court locations statewide. The next group will be smaller courts around Fairbanks (Healy, Nenana, Tok, Delta Junction, Fort Yukon and Galena) where CourtView will be installed beginning in February 2008.

CourtView replaces the old "RUG" information system and provides a wide range of services not previously available through "RUG". The new system supports electronic data exchanges with other agencies, electronic filling, electronic payments of fees and fines, and Internet access to court records. Internet access to court records was implemented in July 2005. Acceptance of electronic payments over the Internet was implemented in August 2006 (for certain types of payments), and an electronic data exchange with the Municipality of Anchorage for minor offense cases was completed in March 2006. The court also added a new report distribution system that provides the ability to electronically schedule and distribute court calendars and statistical reports from the new case management system.

The JuryView system has been implemented for all clerical functions for the Anchorage Jury Clerk's office; Anchorage went live (successfully) with the grand jury selection process on April 26, 2007 and will be live for grand jury hearings beginning May 14. The court converted the Jury Master List for three trial sites (Anchorage, Whittier, and St. Paul) to the JuryView system. The new juror payment system in compliance with the state's accounting system is fully integrated with JuryView to provide speedy pay process to jurors with less processing cost to the court.

Work in Progress in FY 07:

- Improving document imaging and access to imaged documents
- Changing in-court procedures
- Completing the move to a court system wide-area-network (WAN) separate from the state's WAN
- Expanding Jury Management with the JuryView system to enhance services to jurors and potential jurors
- Planning for the new appellate case management system
- Continuing to rollout CourtView
- Replacing of Anchorage campus security system

Integrating document imaging with electronic work flow process

JUDICIAL OUTREACH

The court system's judicial outreach activities for FY 07 continued to focus on enhancing public understanding of our justice system by advancing law-related education, fostering community involvement, and promoting American justice principles internationally.

Law Related Education.

The Alaska Teaching Justice Network (ATJN), a joint project of the Alaska Court System and the Alaska Bar Association, continued to play a key role in promoting law-related education (LRE) and civic learning opportunities in our state. In June 2007, the ATJN presented its third Educating on Law & Democracy institute for teachers in conjunction with the Anchorage School District's Summer Academy. Fifteen civics and government teachers from across the state spent two days learning about best practices in lawrelated education from national trainer Margaret Fisher, LRE Coordinator for Washington State Courts.

Also, the ATJN concluded the two-year Alaska Civic Learning Assessment Project in November 2006, with publication of its final report, Advancing the Civic Mission of Alaska's Schools. The project was undertaken in conjunction with UAA's Institute of Social and Economic Research to identify current civic learning opportunities statewide and to assess the state of civil knowledge of Alaska's youth. Supported by a grant from the national Campaign for the Civic Mission of Schools, the project helped foster renewed commitment to civic learning among lawyers, judges, educators, legislators, youth organization leaders and others in our state. Although the project is completed, the court system remains involved in efforts to promote civic learning. Long-time educator Mary Bristol, chair of Alaska's delegation to the U.S. Congressional Conference on Civic Education, presented the ACLAP report to the Alaska Legislature during the 2007 session. In May 2007, the legislature adopted a resolution establishing the Citizen's Advisory Task Force on Civics Education Policy. The court system has a representative on the Task Force, which met during the fall of 2007 and expects to present its recommendations to the legislature in February 2008.

In FY 07 the court system continued its instrumental role in promoting Law Day. the national celebration of our country's legal system. Through collaboration with the Alaska Bar Association, judicial officers and attorneys teamed up to visit schools and community groups to address the 2007 Law Day theme, Liberty Under Law: Empowering Youth, Assuring Democracy. Hundreds of youth statewide participated in mock trials, contests, art contests and other unique opportunities to learn about their rights and responsibilities as citizens. addition, the court system developed a statewide Law Day photo-text exhibit, Rise & Shine: Alaska's Youth Celebrate Citizenship, which featured youth from across the state involved in law-related education and civic learning programs.

For the fifth year, the Alaska Court System co-sponsored the Color of Justice program, an initiative of the National Association of Women Judges (NAWJ) designed to encourage young women and youth of color to pursue careers in the judiciary. Over 120 high school students attended the two-day session in Anchorage on June 21-22, 2007, which took place at both UAA and the Alaska Court System. Volunteer lawyers, judges, law professors, and law students joined in efforts meaningful to ensure interactive presentations on a range of legal topics. In addition, many students stayed overnight in the UAA dorms, providing an introduction to campus life. For the first time, this year's Color of Justice program included a half-day workshop for college students and adults interested in attending law school. The session, held June 23, 2007, brought together approximately 30 young people. law school admissions officers, UAA representatives and members of the Anchorage legal community for discussion and exchange on preparing for law school and the admissions process. The Color of Justice program has been a successful program for fostering both lawrelated education and future diversity in the judiciary. Planning is underway for 2008, when we hope to once again introduce young people across the state to the variety of careers available to them in law and the judiciary.

Fostering Community Involvement.

During FY07, the court system participated in a variety of forums to help educate the public about the rule of law and our justice system. In February 2007. Chief Justice Fabe initiated Open Court, a series of public forums at superior court locations across the state designed to address specific issues of concern to local communities. In 2007. Open Court forums were held in Juneau, Ketchikan, Sitka, Anchorage and Kodiak. Forum topics have included therapeutic courts, community corrections, juvenile substance abuse, the rise in selfrepresentation, and the importance of alternative dispute resolution in family cases, and each forum has succeeded in identifying useful and concrete steps for court improvement. In 2008, Open Court forums will be held Barrow, Dillingham, Fairbanks, Kotzebue, and Nome.

Also during FY07, the court system helped co-sponsor a new program to address Alaska's high rates of recidivism. cooperation with the National Association of Women Judges and Hiland Mountain Correctional Center, the first Success Inside and Out conference was launched in November 2006, with the goal of helping incarcerated women prepare for the transition to life outside prison. The program provides valuable information and support to women prior to their discharge, to improve their chances of success in the community. Volunteer professionals offer workshops on topics that range from securing stable housing and employment to managing finances and maintaining healthy lifestyles. The second annual Success Inside and Out conference took place in November 2007. and the program continues to show great promise in helping close the revolving doors of our state's jails.

International Justice Activities.

The court system continues to play an active role in the Khabarovsk-Alaska Rule of Law Partnership, a judicial exchange program with the Russian Far East. The program sends Alaskan judges and attorneys to Russia annually, and hosts visiting delegations of Russian judges and attorneys through the Library of Congress Open World Program. The project is designed to allow Russian and American judges and attorneys to learn more about each other's justice systems.

LAW LIBRARY

The court system maintains law libraries at seventeen court locations for the use by the judiciary, attorneys, and the general public. The Anchorage location is the administrative headquarters of the library system and is the state's most comprehensive legal research facility. This library maintains a comprehensive collection of state and federal statutory. regulatory, and case law; legal encyclopedias and reference materials: treatises and looseleaf services; law reviews and journals; and selected government documents. Some of the most frequently used items are older versions of various treatises, regulations and statutes.

Services.

Library staff in Anchorage, Juneau, Fairbanks, and Ketchikan provide reference services. The library accepts reference requests statewide via telephone, fax, and email. In FY07, the library acquired a toll-free number, 888-282-2082, for callers within the state. Document retrieval and interlibrary loan services are available for court staff and members of the bar. During FY07, Anchorage library staff responded to 5,679 reference inquiries and completed 1,168 circulation/document delivery transactions.

Web Resources.

The library continues to manage the Alaska Court System website (www.state.ak.us/courts). Visits to the website in FY06 averaged 95,181 per month. This is a 20% increase over FY06. As more court business is handled online, this number should continue to increase. The law library web page (www.state.ak.us/courts/library.htm) provides access to a searchable catalog of library holdings statewide plus links to a variety of legal research web resources.

Public Access to Online Legal Research Services.

All library locations have computer terminals for free public access to computer assisted legal research. From the court system website, users can access Alaska primary resources. These include the Alaska Case Law service, Alaska statutes, administrative code, municipal codes, and more.

Westlaw patron access allows users in all law library locations to use searchable full-text databases including state and federal primary law, legal periodicals, and selected secondary sources. Several library locations also have access to HeinOnline, an image-based collection of legal materials, including over 1,200 Code of Federal iournals. the Regulations, Federal Register, U.S. Statutes at Large, and more. While the Kenai law library is closed during the renovation of the courthouse, the law library computer has been relocated across the street to the Kenai public library.

Library Outreach.

During FY07, librarians presented a variety of trainings around the state. New law clerks are trained on Westlaw. Librarians presented CLEs on administrative law resources, estate planning resources, and free Internet legal resources. The library's new toll-free number is intended to provide easier communication with the Anchorage reference desk for users state-wide.

Library Software and Server Upgrades. In order to provide up-to-date management operations and user services, the library is transitioning to a fourth generation Integrated Library System (ILS). Staff and public will access the library database via a web interface and processing applications will move off PC workstations and onto external servers. Progress so far includes the installation of new MS SQL database and report generation servers. The new ILS was to be based on Horizon software from SirsiDynix, one of the leading information technology providers to libraries worldwide. The recent purchase of SirsiDynix by Vista Equity Partners and the resulting decision to consolidate their various products into a single ILS platform has put the library's transition plans temporarily on hold.

LEGISLATIVE DEVELOPMENTS

During the 2007 regular session the legislature passed an omnibus crime bill that included several substantive and procedural changes likely to affect the court system. Of particular note are provisions that direct the Division of Motor Vehicles to place an alcohol restriction on a person's driver's license or state identification card if the person has been convicted of DUI or refusal, and as a part of his or her sentence or as a condition of probation, the person has been ordered to not consume alcohol. The restriction remains on the license or ID card for the period of time imposed by the court.

The bill does not change the laws governing when or whether a judge imposes an alcohol restriction and it does not impose a duty on alcohol licensees to check for identification. It does, however, allow a licensee to seek a $1,000 civil penalty against a person who attempts to obtain or consume alcohol while subject to a court order that prohibits alcohol consumption. This is similar to the $1,000 penalty that is currently available to licensees in cases where a minor attempts to obtain alcohol.

Among other changes, the crime bill also increases from 48 hours to seven days the amount of time that must elapse between bail review hearings; establishes statutory criteria for the award of "Nygren" credit; limits the time available to a defendant applying for post-conviction relief based on a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel during an earlier post-conviction relief application; and prohibits the award of good time credit to a prisoner for time spent in a treatment program, in a private residence or while on electronic monitoring.

The legislature also rewrote many of the state's ethics laws. Although most of the provisions are limited to lobbyists and officials in the executive and legislative branches, several changes relating to the content and form of financial and election-related reports apply to judges as well. One such change reduces from $1,000 to $500 the minimum level of income received by a judge that triggers a financial reporting requirement.

Finally, at the request of the court system, the legislature appropriated funds necessary to increase the fees paid to attorneys who accept court appointments under Administrative Rule 12(e) of the Alaska Rules of Court. Effective July 1, 2007, the fee increased from $40/hour to $75/hour. The court system hopes that the higher fee will increase the number of attorneys willing and able to accept Rule 12(e) cases.

TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT

The Training and Development Group designs and implements training for court employees and is responsible for planning and coordinating the court system's annual educational conferences for judges, magistrates, and clerks of court.

Training.

Court system training is designed to maintain and improve employee competency with the goal of enhancing the performance of the entire court During FY07 the court's system. Resource Development Officer worked with the Human Resources Department. Area Court Administrators, clerks of court, and Administrative office department managers to train non-judicial employees in discriminatory and sexual harassment prevention, diversity awareness, professional ethics, conflict resolution, problem solving, communication skills for internal and external customers, giving legal information vs. legal advice, and general supervisory competencies.

Educational Conferences.

Two judicial conferences were held during FY06. In October 2006, judges attended a two-day conference that focused on domestic violence, opinion writing and other topics. In May 2007, judges joined Alaska Bar members in Fairbanks for the annual joint Alaska Bar Convention and Judicial Conference. The conference included workshop sessions on U.S. Supreme Court opinions, Alaska Appellate update, case management, courtroom control and therapeutic courts. In addition, a special conference for newer judges was held in January 2007.

A statewide magistrate conference was held in Anchorage in the fall of 2006.

Statistical Summaries

SUPREME COURT ACTIVITY

Filings: During FY 07, 413 cases were filed in the supreme court, a 13% increase from the 364 cases filed in FY 06. Appeal filings increased by 2%, while petitions for hearing were up 77% and petitions for review decreased 7% from the previous year. The category that includes bar matters, federal certification matters, and original applications increased by 26%. For details about filings in various categories of cases from FY 03 through FY 07, see Table III.

Dispositions: The supreme court disposed of 404 cases in FY 07, a 5% increase from the 386 dispositions in FY 06. The court issued 114 full opinions, 23 MO&Js, and five published orders. For details about dispositions by case type in FY 07, see Table II. For comparisons of dispositions by case type from FY 03 through FY 07, see Table III.

Pending Caseload: On June 30, 2007, 431 cases were pending, 5% more than the 412 cases pending at the end of FY 06. 60% of these pending cases were at a stage prior to submission to the court (filing pending, awaiting settlement conference, awaiting record or transcripts, awaiting briefs, awaiting argument or conference, or awaiting response to a petition). Three percent were stayed or were awaiting rehearing or record return prior to closing, and the remaining 37% were under advisement (submitted to the court but awaiting circulation of a draft opinion, publication of an opinion, or decision on a petition). For a comparison of cases pending at year's end according to case type from FY 03 through FY 07, see Table III. For a breakdown of reasons for cases pending at the end of FY 07 according to case type, see Table V.

Time Required for Disposition of Cases: In fifty percent of appeals decided by opinion or MO&J, the time from submission (usually the date of oral argument or conference on the briefs) to publication of a decision was 8 months or less. Fifty percent of petitions, bar matters, and original applications were completed (from opening to closing) in 2.7 months or less. Additional information about time to disposition can be found in Table VI.

^{*} This chart includes petitions that were granted during the fiscal year. Those cases are not closed when the petition is granted, but instead typically proceed through full briefing, oral argument or conference, and finally the opinion of the court. Thus the case is not likely to be closed during the fiscal year when the petition was granted. The totals on this chart may therefore differ from the total number of dispositions on other charts that simply count cases closed.

COURT OF APPEALS ACTIVITY

Filings: During FY 07, 270 cases were filed in the court of appeals, a 28% decrease from the 374 filings in FY 06. The FY06 number was higher due to the large number of appeals filed following the United States Supreme Court's decision in Blakely v. Washington, 542 U.S. 296 (2004), relating to the constitutionality of sentencing guidelines. 203 merit appeals were filed in FY 07, a 35% decrease from the previous year. Sentence appeal filings were up 19%, from 26 in FY 06 to 31 in FY 07. 35 petitions for review and petitions for hearing were filed, a 6% increase from FY 06. For a comparison of filings in various case categories from FY 03 through FY 07, see Table IX.

Dispositions: The court of appeals disposed of 301 cases in FY 07, a 30% increase from the 232 dispositions in FY 06. The court issued 57 full opinions and 148 memorandum opinions. For details about the types and caseload composition of dispositions in FY 07, see Table VIII. For comparisons of dispositions by case type from FY 03 through FY 07, see Table IX.

Pending Caseload: On June 30, 2007, 661 cases were pending before the court of appeals, a 1% decrease from the 669 cases pending at the end of FY 06. 83% of these cases were at a stage prior to submission to the court (filing pending, awaiting record, awaiting briefing, awaiting conference or oral argument, or awaiting response to a petition). Four percent were stayed or were awaiting rehearing or record return prior to closing, and the remaining 13% were under advisement (submitted to the court but awaiting circulation of a draft opinion, filing of an opinion, or a decision on a petition). For a comparison of cases pending at year's end according to case type from FY 03 through FY 07, see Table IX. Filings: During FY07, 153,000 cases were filed in the trial courts, a slight decrease over the 155,291 filings reported in FY06. Criminal case filings continue to rise, however. Felony filings increased by 6.6 percent between FY06 and FY07 and have increased by 12.5 percent since FY05. In Anchorage, felony filings increased by 18.5 percent between FY06 and FY07 and by 33.4 percent between FY05 and FY07.

Dispositions: The trial courts disposed of 162,445 cases in FY07, a slight increase over the 162,256 dispositions reported in FY06. The clearance rate for the trail courts was 106 percent in FY07, meaning that the courts were both keeping up with their incoming caseload and reducing the backlog of cases awaiting disposition.

Explanatory Notes:

Felony and Misdemeanor Cases: Most felony cases are initiated in district court and transferred to superior court after indictment by a grand jury or after the filing of information in superior court. Since most of the activity in a felony case occurs in the superior court, felony cases are reported as superior court filings regardless of where the case began. A chart showing felony cases initiated in the district courts is provided for informational purposes. See S-53. Although the numbers reported in this table are not included in the district court totals, they should be considered when evaluating the workload of a district court.

Criminal cases are categorized based on the most serious charge. For example, if a defendant is charged with a felony and two misdemeanors, the case is counted as a felony. If the prosecutor subsequently reduced the felony charge to a misdemeanor, the case is still counted as a felony, since most of the work associated with the case takes place in superior court.

The criminal filing statistics in this report include only new case filings. They do not include petitions to revoke probation or other proceedings that cause the court to reopen a case. Petitions to revoke probation significantly impact the trial court workload. Anchorage judges, for example, handled 2,217 felony petitions to revoke probation in FY07 and 6,096 misdemeanor petitions to revoke probation. Criminal case dispositions include only new case dispositions. They do not include dispositions of petitions to revoke probation.

Domestic Violence Cases: Although domestic violence and stalking cases may be filed in either district or superior court, the vast majority of these cases are handled in the district court. In this report, all domestic violence and stalking cases are counted as district court cases to make it easier to see the total number of cases that are filed.

Computerized & Non-Computerized Courts: The district courts are still categorized as "computerized" and "non-computerized" courts even though all courts now have some form of computerized case management system. The "computerized" courts tend to be the larger district court sites, while the "non-computerized" courts are usually small magistrate posts with a very limited caseload. The court system is in the process of installing a new statewide case management system, called "CourtView." The new system is currently operating in Anchorage, Palmer, Fairbanks, Nome, Barrow, Kotzebue, and Unalakleet.

Dispositions	108,465	141,520	142,786

Note: FY05 fillings' and dispositions' totals in this table were adjusted from numbers published in the FY05 annual report. The difference is primarily related to an adjustment in the fillings and dispositions for the Yakutat court. The adjustments increased published FY05 fillings by 187 and FY05 dispositions by 65. FY06 fillings totals were adjusted from the numbers published in last year's annual report due to an increase of 592 civil cases reported for the Palmer court.

Table VIII District Court (Computerized Courts) Composition of Filings FY 07

Non-Minor Offense Filings

Minor Offense Filings

Misdemeanor Filings

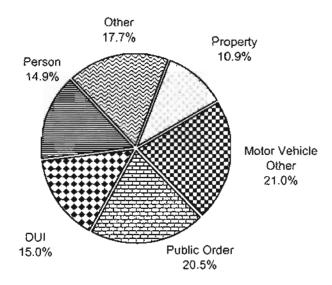

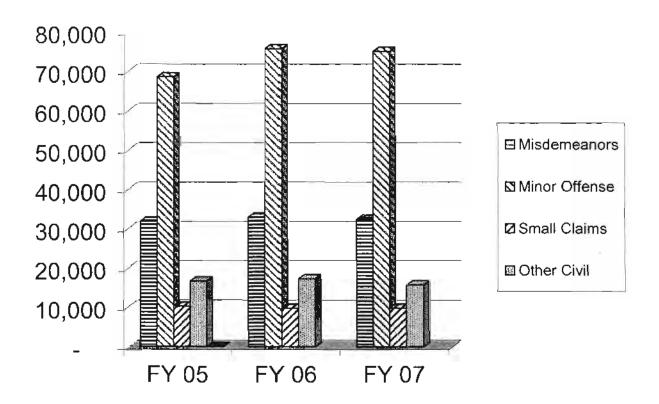

Table VIII analyzes the composition of cases filed in computerized district courts during FY07. Misdemeanor cases represent approximately 55.2% of the non-traffic district court caseload. Approximately 36.6% of all misdemeanor cases involve driving while intoxicated or another criminal traffic violation (for example, driving with suspended license). The "Other Civil" category includes domestic violence and stalking cases, Domestic violence and stalking cases filed in the superior court are included in the district court totals,

The "Other Civil" category includes domestic violence and stalking cases. Domestic violence and stalking cases filed in the superior court are included in the district court totals.

Note: FY05 filings totals in this table were adjusted from numbers published the FY05 annual report on this table. The difference is a combination of an adjustment in the filings for the Yakutat court and a under-reporting of minor offense cases. FY06 filings totals were adjusted from the numbers published in last year's annual report due to an increase of 592 civil cases reported for the Palmer court.

Statistics

FOREWORD

This statistical supplement is designed primarily for research applications. It is comprised of six sections dealing with appellate and trial court statistics. Appellate court statistics are subdivided into sections on the supreme court and court of appeals. Trial court statistics are comprised of sections on superior courts, computerized district courts and non-computerized district courts.

Any reader with questions, comments or suggestions about this statistical supplement is invited to contact:

Domestic relations, probate, and children's matters are accepted in some district court sites without superior courts. To determine total filings in these case categories it is necessary to add the filings in the superior court, and the filings in the district court. See chart $-53 for district court filings. These statistics do not include domestic violence or stalking cases filed in the superior courts. All domestic violence and stalking cases are counted as district court cases.

Notes

Criminal cases typically contain multiple charges. The Alaska Court System categorizes cases for reporting purposes based on the most serious charge.

^{*} In FY07 the Alaska Court System changed the way it categorizes criminal cases for annual reporting. The categories now conform to the National Center for State Courts' national model for caseload statistical reporting. This change is intended to make Alaska's statistics easier to compile, understand, and compare to those of other jurisdictions.

³These statistics do not include children's matters filed in distinct court sites without superior courts

⁷ Includes new petitions for adjudication of delinquency and petitions to revoke probation filled in existing delinquency cases

³ New child in need of aid petitions only

⁴ Petitions for termination of parental rights filed in existing CINA cases. In courts using the new trial court case-management system, a single petition covering both parents is counted as two petitions.

In FY07 the Alaska Court System changed the way it categorizes minor offenses for annual reporting. The traffic categories now conform to the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators (AAMVA) Code Dictionary. This change is intended to make Alaska's statistics easier to compile, understand and compare to those of other jurisdictions.
