3. The Court of Appeals shall publish a schedule of briefing extension limits, prescribing the maximum amount of extension that will normally be allowed for a brief, and describing the periods of time that will be exempted from the calculation of the extension limits. APPENDIX to STANDING ORDER No. 12
Court of Appeals
Schedule of Briefing Extension Limits
(last modified: April 1, 2024)

Introduction: Over the past several years, this Court observed that the briefing of criminal appeals was taking longer and longer. By the end of calendar year 2013, the briefing of a felony appeal was taking close to two years.

Our law guarantees a right of appeal to all defendants, and there is no closure to a criminal case until the appeal is decided. Excessive appellate delay harms the interests of all the participants in the criminal justice system — not only the defendants and victims and their families, but also the police agencies who investigated the crime, and the community affected by the crime. This Court owes a duty to all of these people, and a duty to the public at large, to maintain the health and effectiveness of the criminal justice system. Accordingly, we will no longer grant any briefing extensions beyond the deadlines set forth in this schedule, absent truly extraordinary circumstances.

The initial limits that took effect in February 2014 were based on the 75th percentile of total delay for the appellant's opening brief and the appellee's brief in felony appeals. The Court's plan is to gradually reduce these limits until the briefing of appeals takes less than 18 months (540 days) in total.

Briefing Extension Limits:

The Court will apply the following briefing extension limits to all requests for extension filed on or after the specified dates. The Court can relax these limits, but the Court will do so only for extraordinary circumstances.

Note regarding reply briefs: The extension limits specified in this Appendix apply only to the appellant's opening brief and the appellee's brief in a case. If a reply brief is allowed, motions to extend the filing deadline for that reply brief are governed by Appellate Rule 503.5. Under Appellate Rule 503.5(b)(1), a party can obtain a “routine” extension of 15 days for filing a reply brief. Extensions exceeding 15 days are considered “non-routine”, and any request for such an extension must be accompanied by the supporting statements specified in Appellate Rule 503.5(c).

For extension requests filed from February 1, 2014, to August 31, 2014:

total for the opening brief: 530 days

total for the appellee’s brief: 250 days

For extension requests filed from September 1, 2014 to February 28, 2015:

total for the opening brief: 500 days

total for the for the appellee’s brief: 230 days

For extension requests filed from March 1, 2015 to August 31, 2015:

total for the opening brief: 465 days

total for the appellee’s brief: 230 days

For extension requests filed from September 1, 2015 to February 29, 2016:

total for the opening brief: 430 days

total for the appellee’s brief: 210 days

For extension requests filed from March 1, 2016 to August 31, 2016:

total for the opening brief: 395 days

total for the appellee’s brief: 205 days

For extension requests filed from September 1, 2016 to May 31, 2023:

total for the opening brief: 390 days

total for the appellee’s brief: 200 days

For extension requests filed from June 1, 2023 to November 30, 2023:

total for the opening brief: 350 days

total for the appellee’s brief: 195 days

For extension requests filed from December 1, 2023 to June 30, 2024:

total for the opening brief: 320 days

total for the appellee's brief: 185 days

For extension requests filed from July 1, 2024 to present:

total for the opening brief: 280 days

total for the appellee's brief: 170 days

Explanatory Notes: How the Court of Appeals calculates the total briefing extension

1. The Court calculates the total extension by taking the currently requested due date and subtracting the original due date.

2. Because the Court automatically adjusts for weekends and holidays when it grants an extension request, the total extension (as calculated under paragraph 1) will sometimes be a little larger than the sum of the previous requests for extension.

For example, if a party requests an extension of 45 days, and if the 45th day falls on a Saturday, the due date will be set for Monday. If the brief is actually filed by that Monday, the Court will count that brief as having been filed within the requested 45 days. But if the party then files another request for an additional extension of time, the Court will treat the party's previous extension as a 47-day extension for purposes of calculating the new total.

3. When the Court calculates the total extension for a brief, we will not count periods of interruption for events that must take place before briefing can continue — for example, interruptions to allow for the preparation of a supplemental transcript, or to allow for a representation hearing or other supplemental proceeding in the trial court.

When a party files a motion asking for a delay of briefing for one of these reasons, the exempted period will begin on the day the motion was filed, and the Court will normally exempt 30 additional days from the time the supplemental transcript or trial court hearing is completed (to allow the attorney to work the case back into their schedule).
